SUMMARY

---

Highly motivated and enthusiastic as I strive excellence for every work that I do, I've always had a keen interest in the the field of development and as a motivated and dedicated student, I am currently pursuing my passion for web development using various tech stacks such as React JS and various other libraries. I also contain knowledge on Containerization using Devops tools such as Docker. Through a combination of coursework and independent study, I am continually expanding my knowledge and honing my skills in this exciting field. With a strong focus on both front-end and back-end development, I am in process to upskill myself at creating visually stunning and functionally robust websites and applications.
